Course Overview

Background

The global demand for skilled, reliable gig workers is enormous. Across industries, businesses are turning to flexible talent to solve problems, deliver projects, and drive innovation. The opportunity is real and it is accessible. In Nigeria, young people are already participating in this shift. Over 35% engage in some form of freelance work, yet many operate without structure, strategic positioning, or long-term sustainability.¹

The result? Inconsistent income, underpricing, burnout, and missed growth potential.

This course exists to close that gap.

Course Goal

The General Gig Work Course is designed for young people aged 18–35 who are ready to convert their skills into structured, dignified, and scalable income streams. Whether you are currently unemployed, doing occasional gig work on the side, or seeking alternatives to traditional employment, this course meets you where you are and equips you with the clarity, systems, and professional standards required to compete confidently in the global marketplace.

Your Future Starts Now

The gig economy does not care where you grew up, or what state you are from. It cares whether you can deliver value, communicate professionally, and show up consistently. This course is your training ground for exactly that. You already have more to offer than you know. This course will help you prove it; to clients, to the world, and to yourself.
